The Judges

Allen Aisenstein

Allen is an award-winning Bucks County based landscape and nature photographer. He has exhibited in one-person and group shows at galleries and on the internet. He has published four books to date.

David Simchock

A New Jersey native, David was educated as a mechanical engineer and now is a freelance photographer specializing in travel. His creative endeavors also include portraiture and music events.

Chris Whitney

Since beginning his career in 1984, Chris has photographed countless weddings, families, children and corporate clients. Today, with his son Tim he specializes in landscape imaging with film and digital capture.

* * * * *

Each judge viewed all 409 entries entirely in one viewing, divided by category, separately and independently from the other judges, and rated each print anonymously on its merit within its category with a score from 0-33 points. No judge had any influence upon another since they were scheduled at different times. Their points were totaled after the final judging, determining standings, with 99 points as the highest possible score. Best Of Show is the highest scoring print overall.

Chris Stieber of Churchville Nature Center chose the Director's Award independently from any scoring. The Co-Chairs likewise selected the Chairmen's, Creative Achievement, Special Recognition, Ernie Volpe, and Humor Awards.
